DANIELSON

H. F. Turner was in Boston Thursday to secure the services of teachers to fill the vacancies which have occurred during the last school year. The school board now begins to realize that the problem of securing teachers is very serious. There are vacancies for 100 teachers throughout the state of Connecticut. This demand must be met before the opening of school on September 3. The reason for this shortage is that at this time the teachers realize that they are underpaid in school work and are taking up opportunities along clerical work and nursing for the government.

Other supervisors in the state are having much trouble in securing teachers and Danielson considers it self indeed fortunate to have such a capable and reliable faculty with so few vacancies.

S. P. Marland a member of the town school board signed eleven certificates to transfer teachers to nurses. They are doing this as a patriotic duty.

The Twenty-Mule Team Borax outfit arrived in town at last. Many children heralded the coming of the outfit early Thursday morning. The team made several stops. At Fourt's market one of the men gave a talk on the value of Borax Products and also on the Mule Team itself. Owing to the length of the team the mules had to be unhitched at one point to allow the team to make a corner.
